Abstract: The Peter Blair Richley papers, 1898-2000 document his extensive collection on automobile history. Richley was an avid collector of automobilia in all formats. The collection includes reports (largely dating from 1945-1985) on automotive topics; photograph albums from a variety of sources, and most documented pre-World War II British automobiles, buses, and trucks; prints and digitized photographs of road and race cars; documentation concerning early motorcycles, and a wide variety of other automobilia. Collection strengths include his files on the British Intelligence Objectives Sub-Committee (BIOS) concerning the German and Italian auto industries before and after World War II, and the Motor Industry Research Association (MIRA) report.

Language: Materials are in English.

Biography: Peter Blair Richley, 1920-2004, born Peter Loreto Santarelli, was an active member of the automotive collecting community. After he served in World War II, Richley collected veteran and vintage cars. He became a member of several car clubs such as the Veteran Car Club of Great Britain, The Vintage Sports Car Club, Bugatti Owners Club, and the 12/50 Alvis Register. While in the Veteran Car Club of Great Britain, he served on the Dating Committee. Later, Richley was asked by Prince Rainier Grimaldi of Monaco to join the panel of judges for The Concours d'Elegance following the Monte Carlo Rally for two consecutive years. During this time, Richley was also exporting pre-war Rolls Royce and Bentley cars and importing 2CV Citroens and veteran and vintage cars to England. Richley continued to collect cars until the year 2000.

Scope and Content Note: The organization of the Peter Blair Richley papers is complex because of his enormous collecting scope in many different formats. In addition, through the years various parts were reorganized or cataloged as separate items. In 2017, as best as possible, the papers were brought back into one collection and organized into seven distinct series.

Series 1: Company, Government, and Industry Publications. Boxes 1-106 (124 linear feet; 106 boxes). Includes a wide variety of reports, largely dating from 1945-1985, on automotive topics compiled by Richley. Especially valuable are the reports of the British Intelligence Objectives Sub-Committee (BIOS) concerning the German and Italian auto industries before and after World War II. Also of note are the Motor Industry Research Association (MIRA) reports. Company publications and reports focus on the British car manufacturers. Richley originally compiled his publications generally by the source of the document (company, government, or industry). While the original physical order was retained, the titles are sorted in alphabetical order to make it easier to find similar information.

The photographs date from 1946-1963 and contain 287 total images, which includes 170 color transparencies, 2 black-and-white transparencies, 75 black-and-white negatives, and 40 color negatives. Within this collection are press and publicity images of marques such as Bugatti, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chrysler, De Dion-Bouton, Ferrari, and Jaguar. Featured events include Coupes du Salon and Glover Trophy. Also included are notable venues such as Autodrome de Montlhery, Marlboro Speedway, Santa Pod Raceway, and Goodwood Race Course.
